THEATRE
Student Handbook
Unless one is committed there is hesitancy, the chance to draw back always ineffectiveness.
Concerning all acts of initiative and creation
there is one elementary truth,
the ignorance of which kills countless ideas
and splendid plans:
That the moment when one definitely commits oneself
then Providence moves too.
All sort of things occur to help one that would never otherwise have occurred.
A whole stream of events issue from the decision
raising in one’s favor all matter of unforeseen incidents and meetings
and material assistance
which no person could have dreamt
would have come his way.
Whatever you can do, or dream you can, begin it.
Boldness has genius, power and magic in it.
Begin it now.

Our Mission

Department of Music, Theatre and Dance

Within the setting of a liberal arts education, the mission of the Department of Music, Theatre and Dance is twofold:

a) to provide students with depth of understanding and experience in one or more areas of specialization, and

b) to provide the university community and general public with a breadth of arts experiences. This is to be accomplished in a curricular setting which stresses the interrelationships of the arts represented in the department. The department fulfills this mission through classroom and studio instruction and performance experiences. It considers these two functions (instruction and performance) as equally important in arts education at the university level.

Theatre

The mission of the Theatre Program within the department of Music, Theatre and Dance is to provide a dynamic educational environment that enables students to become:

- articulate interpreters of the theatrical art.
- skillful and creative practitioners in a chosen area of concentration.
- familiar with the historical and cultural dimensions of theatre.
- informed collaborators in the multi-disciplinary theatrical process.
- life-long learners and leaders in theatre.

The Theatre Program likewise aims to serve the broader community by:

- Offering courses of general interest to all university students that impart an appreciation for the ways in which theatre is created and the manner in which it mirrors and interprets the human condition.
- Presenting to the university and general audience theatrical performances of high artistic quality in a wide range of historical and cultural styles.
- Educating theatre artists and leaders who will serve and shape local, regional and national theatres in the future.
Theatre at Oakland University

The theatre program at Oakland thrives in the highly collaborative atmosphere within the Department of Music, Theatre and Dance. The hallways and classrooms are filled with actors, singers, dancers, designers, instrumentalists and music educators—students and faculty—creating a rich environment where students gain a broad perspective on the performing arts while at the same time pursuing mastery of their artistic disciplines. A distinguished faculty of educators and professional performers provides excellent teaching and personal mentoring for every student.

The University as a whole shares a long-standing commitment to quality education in the liberal arts, and the general education component of the curriculum assures that students are given many opportunities to expand their intellectual horizons through a wide range of academic explorations while participating in the life of the University.

For the student of theatre, one of the unique features of Oakland is the presence of the professional Meadow Brook Theatre on campus. Theatre students have opportunities to interact with Meadow Brook Theatre personnel in production and in the classroom.

Degree Programs

The Bachelor of Arts (BA) degree curriculum offers a platform for the study of Theatre within the framework of a broad-based, liberal arts curriculum. Students gain an understanding of fundamentals, as well as a fuller intellectual grasp of the performing arts. Small class sizes allow more interaction and personal feedback from theatre faculty.

The Bachelor of Fine Arts (BFA), the initial professional Theatre degree, places primary emphasis on the development of skills, concepts and sensitivities essential to the theatre professional in three areas of concentration:

• Acting
  The BFA in acting develops professional competency through performance, repertory, and theoretical studies for students whose primary interest lies in acting and directing. Training emphasizes a variety of acting skills and offers opportunities to perform and direct.

• Musical Theatre
  The BFA in musical theatre is designed for students interested in acting, singing and dance. A variety of acting classes, individual vocal instruction and training in ballet, jazz and modern dance are available. Performance opportunities exist in musical theatre and opera, in both workshop settings and fully staged productions.
Theatre Design & Technology

The BFA in design and technology serves students interested in theatrical design, technical production or stage management. Training in stagecraft, stage management and scenic, costume and lighting design may lead to advanced projects in these areas according to each student’s interests and capabilities.

Performance/Production Opportunities

Each year the department presents a dynamic season of dramas, comedies, musicals and operas. Students have many opportunities to perform, direct, design, stage-manage and participate in the technical aspects of production. (See a list of recent seasons in the back of this handbook).

Summer Semester in Greece

Theatre students, singers, dancers and anyone interested in classical theatre are invited to audition for the chance to study and perform with the Classical Theatre Company. Dr. Arthur Beer, professor and associate director of the Theatre Company at the University of Detroit Mercy, started this program in 1974. It brings together professional actors, directors, designers, teachers and students for a month of on-site education in Greece.

Oakland University’s theatre faculty, staff and students have been company members in recent years and traveled to Greece to take advantage of this unique learning experience. Now, Oakland students can audition for the company and, if accepted, get 6 hours of Oakland credit in the summer semester through departmental course THA 482.

Every Oakland student should plan to take advantage of this opportunity to study classical theatre where it all began. The company spends three weeks on the island of Spetses studying movement, voice and acting. Evenings bring rehearsals. The plays then open in the amphitheatre on Spetses and tour a number of open-air theatres in Greece. Along the way there are lectures at classical sites and museums and free time to explore the beautiful surroundings and people.

Auditions and interviews are typically in the beginning of the winter semester on campus. Students interested in acting will audition. Technicians and designers will be interviewed. Plan now, to take advantage of this incredible experience while earning elective credits at Oakland University.

American College Theatre Festival

The Kennedy Center/American College Theatre Festival is an organization of over 800 college and university theatres promoting excellence in theatre in higher education. Local responses, regional conferences and an annual festival of performances at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. provide venues for students and faculty from different theatre programs to see and respond to each other’s work, and to participate in a variety of workshops, exhibitions and competitions. MTD’s Theatre Program has been very active and highly successful in participating in KC/ACTF with several recent appearances at the regional and national festivals.

Meadow Brook Theatre

The Meadow Brook Theatre, Michigan’s largest professional theatre, resides on the Oakland University campus. Collaboration between the student and professional theatres takes place in many areas. Several of the professional staff, the Equity stage manager and actors from Meadow Brook teach courses in the department. An internship program allows advanced theatre students to earn course credit while working in a professional theatre setting, and many of our students have been employed on a part-time basis as actors and technicians at Meadow Brook.

Becoming a Theatre Major

Admission

Entrance Auditions: Students who wish to be admitted to Oakland University as theatre majors must audition or interview with the department’s faculty. Contact the department for specific days and times.

Freshmen: Admission to Oakland University is discussed at length in the Undergraduate Catalogue. Applications for admission available from high school counselors or from the Office of Admissions (101 North Foundation Hall, 248-370-3360). They should be submitted early in the senior year of high school, particularly for consideration for university academic scholarships.

Transfer Students: Applicants for transfer admission should have maintained at least a 2.50 grade point average at their previous institution and submit a transcript of previous college work. See the Undergraduate Catalogue.

Scholarships

Auditions and interviews are held every winter for entering applicants who wish to compete for talent-based scholarships in performance and production. Contact the department office at (248) 370-2030 for information about dates, procedures and preparation. All departmental scholarships are for a specified period of time (such as one semester or an academic year). Some are renewable, but no scholarships are automatically renewed from year to year.

Each year the department accepts applications from interested, current students for new or renewal scholarships. The department considers the student’s talent in conjunction with other factors: availability of funds, faculty opinion, classwork, contributions to the strength and/or betterment of the department, service to the program, etc. Renewals are considered before new scholarships.
Once a scholarship is awarded, a student has to enroll for at least 12 credits per semester, make consistent academic progress, and participate onstage or backstage in one of the major theatre productions each semester in order for the scholarship to be renewed. Generally, no student may receive a talent-based scholarship for more than a total of eight semesters.

Entering Pre-Theatre Majors

A student entering Oakland and declaring the intention of majoring in Theatre, will be classified as a pre-Theatre majors student. The student will follow the appropriate initial courses (see Recommended 1st-year Courses) in consultation with an advisor and will make application for formal admission to the degree program via a Major Standing audition/interview as outlined below.

Major Standing

In their third semester, the students wishing to pursue a major in the performing arts will make a formal application through the department office to audition/interview for Major Standing. Transfer students must apply for major standing in their second semester at Oakland. Oakland University Internal Transfers (current students who wish to change their major) must meet with a theatre advisor at once to discuss requirements for major standing. Students applying for major standing at any time after their sophomore year may have to extend their expected graduation date.

- Theatre Performance students will present a combination of two contrasting monologues, or a monologue and a scene with a partner
- Musical Theatre students will present two of the following—a monologue/scene, a song, a dance.
- Theatre Production students will present a resumé and portfolio.

The Major Standing audition/interview offers the faculty a chance to review the students’ work and to offer them advice about their future course of study and growth. On some occasions a student may be denied major standing, deferred for another semester, or encouraged to pursue an alternative track in the program for which the student’s strengths may be better suited.

Production Eligibility

Students majoring in Theatre must stay in good standing academically in the department and the university. If you attend all your classes regularly and maintain good grades, you are eligible for participation in faculty and student-directed productions. If your grades falter or attendance becomes irregular, in your interest, your participation in productions may be limited or suspended until you demonstrate satisfactory academic improvement.
Advising

It is the student’s responsibility to assure that he or she is making academic progress. In order to do that, students are expected to meet with their advisor every semester. Advising is particularly critical for entering students and for students on the verge of graduating. The following is a list of advisors for the various Theatre tracks:

Permission of Instructor

Students interested in taking a class that requires the instructor’s permission before being admitted, must contact the instructor to receive this permission. If permission is granted, the student adds the class on an add/drop form and asks the instructor to sign it. The student then brings this to registration. It is best to get permission before the first day of class, as the class may be filled by then. Occasionally, one of the department secretaries (Muriel or Deneen) may have permission from the instructor to sign the forms. In the case of a part-time instructor who is not always on campus, one of the full-time faculty may have that permission.
